FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Upgraded Adams products at upcoming NAEC convention

Attendees will get a sneak peek at improved products and an online discount from now through the end of the show

Chicago, IL – Adams Elevator, a leader in elevator and escalator products and parts, released exciting details about its National Association of Elevator Contractors (NAEC) 2014 convention exhibition in San Antonio, TX. The convention runs Sept. 8th through 11th and the Adams booth (#816) will feature upgraded equipment, special show discounts and more.

The Adams Elevator product line continues to better itself in order to provide the safest and most efficient services for every client. To showcase these improvements, the booth will highlight the Escalator UniStep and the LifeJacket. New upgrades of these products offer the performance and reliability customers have come to expect from this family of products at a reduced price.

Other displayed product improvements will include the enhanced circuit design of the HatchLatch IV, which ensures a more efficient installation and improved operation and the new KE Limit Switch “Universal”, which features a better interconnection for easier application. NAEC attendees will also be able to see the SilentMove—a digital landing system that provides a user-friendly and reliable experience. In addition to all of these new product features, Adams will also present the customizable Cab Handrail line that allows your exact measurements to be created with a variety of styles to choose from. The easy use of the e-commerce website will also be demonstrated throughout the booth for better customer satisfaction.

To celebrate the show, Adams will offer a two percent discount on all products ordered online from now through the end of the show.
